DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 2 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claims 2 and 6 recites the limitation "the skin-contacting surface" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

4. Claims 1-7 and 9, as best understood by the examiner, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Paul et al. (USPN 6217890 B1).

Regarding claim 1, Paul discloses an absorbent article comprising an absorbent layer containing a superabsorbent polymer and a liquid-impermeable leak-proof layer (Abstract and col. 24, lines 17-32). Paul discloses an agent having a skin care effect that is activated on contact with moisture (col. 23, lines 66 through col. 24, lines 16).

Regarding claim 2, Paul discloses the agent is fixed on a skin-contacting surface of the article (col. 17, lines 41-45).

Regarding claim 3, Paul discloses the agent comprises a water-soluble or water-dispersible plant extract (col. 20, lines 51-65).

Regarding claim 4, Paul discloses the superabsorbent polymer has a water absorption within the claimed range (col. 24, lines 57-62).

Regarding claims 5-7, Paul discloses the absorbent article comprises a liquid-retentive absorbent layer, a liquid-impermeable leak-proof layer, and an agent having an effect on the skin of a wearer on the skin-contacting surface of the article (Abstract, col 17, lines 41-45). Paul discloses the agent contains a water-soluble viscosity enhancer (thickener) (col. 13, lines 55-64 and col. 15, lines 7-21). Claim 7, is a product-by-process claim, which is limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process. In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985) (citations omitted). MPEP 2113.

Art Unit: 3761

Regarding claim 9, Paul discloses the agent has a dissolving temperature of 30-100°C, which includes the claimed range of 40-100°C (col. 16, lines 53-61).

5. Claims 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Blieszner et al. (USPN 5648083).

Regarding claim 10, Blieszner discloses substrate impregnated with a skin care agent containing a water-soluble polyol, which renders it responsive to moisture (col. 3, lines 30-41 and col 7, lines 54-56).

Regarding claim 11, Blieszner discloses the agent contains oil and water-soluble polyols (col. 4, lines 11-19). Blieszner further discloses butylenes glycol may be present in the agent as a water-soluble polyol (col. 7, line 61 through col. 8, line 9).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

8. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Paul in view of Yanaki et al. (USPN 5538728) . Paul discloses the present invention substantially as claimed. However, Paul fails to disclose the water-soluble thickener comprises the claimed material. Yanaki discloses polysaccharide used as a thickener in a skin care composition (col. 3, lines 19-25 and col. 4, lines 11-14, and col. 8, lines 15-44). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate polysaccharide in the agent of Paul. Doing so would provide a water-soluble thickener that gives enhanced viscosity without providing a sticky feeling as taught by Yanaki.
